

Discover new art by artists based in or near Cambridge. The exhibition includes painting, photography, performance, sculpture and other media by twenty-two artists, celebrating diverse practices and addressing current themes and issues.

See the calendar of events which accompany the exhibition, including opportunities to meet artists and performances by Paul Kindersley, Harold Offeh and Caroline Wendling.

The artists were selected from an open-call to which 460 artists put forward work. The selection panel was chaired by Andrew Nairne, Director of Kettle's Yard, and included Amy Botfeld, Arts Council England; Guy Haywood, Curator, Exhibitions and Collection, Kettle's Yard; Kettle's Yard committee member Sabine Jaccaud, Astrazeneca; Issam Kourba, artist and Harriet Loffler, Curator, New Hall Art Collection, Murray Edwards College.

RE-NEW

30 October–3 November
Research space display

TOAST, the clothing and lifestyle brand, has commissioned a group of artists in collaboration with Kettle’s Yard to re-work worn garments and fabrics, turning them into something unique and unexpected. The display aims to promote the idea that clothes can have a life beyond their first wearer; creatively supporting a lower carbon lifestyle. The participating artists are: Forest & Found, Alice Fox, Richard McVetis, Hannah Robson and Sophie Rowley. RE-NEW coincides with the launch of TOAST Circle, their national clothes exchange project.
